

Huguenot Grange Gets First Award at Ulster County Fair on Friday

Highland Grange, State Blue Ribbon Winner, Takes Second Honors as Annual Event Opens at Armory.

EXHIBITS, CONTESTS

Mrs. Wolfersteig Wins Amateur Honors in Senior Division—Local Stock Exhibitors Win.

Huguenot Grange of New Paltz was awarded first place for its booth at the annual Ulster County Fair in the state armory on Manor avenue on Friday, the opening day of the fair, with Highland Grange, blue ribbon winner of the state fair in Syracuse, in second place. Rosendale Grange was awarded third prize with Ulster Grange winning fourth. There were 10 Granges competing for the best display at the fair. The morning and afternoon attendance at the fair was far from good, but the evening attendance was large, the majority drawn there by the amateur show that was one of the features of the annual fair. Mrs. Jessie Wolfersteig, soprano soloist of Kingston, won first prize in the amateur show in the senior division. In the junior division the judges picked what they believed were the best three acts, and they competed with the winners of this afternoon's program at the fair.

Probably one of the finest exhibits of cattle was that displayed at the fair yesterday and today with Clarence Schoonmaker, Babcock Farms, A. A. Chambers and C. L. Allen the four largest exhibitors. Their herds of cattle were awarded a number of the blue ribbons distributed. The cattle were exhibited in the large stables that form a part of the big state armory, and the exhibit drew many interested visitors. Those from Kingston who viewed the cattle gained a first hand knowledge of the breed of cows that supplied the milk consumed in Kingston.

Another exceptionally fine exhibit was that of the home department in charge of Miss Evonice Parsons, home demonstration agent of the Ulster County Home Bureau. Here were displayed tempting homemade cakes and cookies, jams, jellies and preserves as well as canned fruits and vegetables that tickled the palate of every one who visited the exhibit which was staged in the officers' lounge just off the main entrance to the armory. There were also displayed metal craft, quilts and rugs of all descriptions, all homemade. There was also an electrical demonstration showing the proper lighting of the home.

In this exhibit of the home department there was enough of interest to keep housewives interested for some time. The poultry exhibit this year is also exceptionally fine and many of the breeders of the finest poultry in Ulster county were represented at the fair. The work of selecting the winners in the poultry exhibit was still in progress last night.

The amateur show was put on promptly at 8 o'clock Friday evening. The various acts had been booked by Ward Rylea of Smith avenue, who had charge of that part of the fair program. John Melville acted as master of ceremonies for the senior group with Buddy Oulton as master of ceremonies for the juniors.

The junior acts went on first and every one proved exceptionally good and the judges had difficult work in selecting the three best acts who were to compete with the three best acts of this afternoon's show for first, second and third prizes. At the close of the junior bill the judges selected Red Miller, six year old son of this city, Joseph Vigna, a young accordionist of Saugerties, and Theresa Dragata and Antoinette Bonno, a dancing act from Saugerties.

Others who appeared on the junior program, and all of whom were good, were: Esther Swift of this city, dancer; Hilda Murdock of this city, an accomplished accordion player; Gladys Westervelt, Avery of Kingston in a singing and dancing act.

In the senior division Mrs. Wolfersteig, soloist of this city, was awarded first prize; Dede Roberts, dancer, and his accompanist, Dutch Miller of Kingston Point, won second prize, and Donald Schneider of Saugerties, trumpeter, third. Dede Roberts danced with a glass of water on his head. He is one of the real old time performers of this city and his act received a big hand. Mrs. Wolfersteig, who has sung before many audiences, is a most accomplished performer with a beautifully trained voice. She was accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Pansy Hudler. Honorable mention was awarded to William Overbaugh of Saugerties, a fine vocalist.

Other acts that appeared on the program, and all of whom were good, were Billy Lavette of Saugerties in a comedy act; Leroy Davis, vocalist of Bithon; Robert and Mannon of Kingston in a dancing and accordion act; Estelle Brown of Saugerties, vocalist; Luther and Billy Lavette of Saugerties in a comedy act.

The evening's program was opened by King Tut's Burlesque who had donated their services. They made a big hit with the audience of young people who were delighted at the large audience with their music and singing. They also had donated their services for the evening to the fair.

Superintendent Van Ingen and Mayor Heiselman to Confer on Plans for Junior High School

Time Marches Back

Set the clock back before you go to bed tonight for daylight saving ends at 2 a. m. and you gain the hour you lost last spring.

Council Committee Maintains Stand on Use of Auditorium

There is no change in the attitude of the building and supplies committee of the Common Council as the result of the conference held at the city hall Friday afternoon between members of the committee and representatives of the American League Against War and Fascism, in reference to the matter of allowing the use of the Municipal Auditorium for a proposed public meeting in the interest of the policies advocated by the League.

The entire membership of the committee was present and some 10 or 12 others, representatives of the Kingston branch of the League and citizens who were interested in the question at issue as a matter that involved freedom of speech.

When the matter of using the auditorium for a public meeting was originally brought up by certain prominent citizens, the committee granted permission for such use. Later the permission was revoked.

There was thorough discussion of the entire question at the meeting Friday, but at the conclusion the committee maintained its position as refusing to endorse the application for use of the auditorium.

The committee has issued the following statement in reference to the matter:

Committee's Statement

"In reference to the published statement giving the resolution of the Building and Supply Committee of the Common Council, cancelling the permit for the Municipal Auditorium granted to the American League Against War and Fascism, for the reason that the aims and purposes of said league, as described in their literature, are opposed to orderly and constitutional government as now existing in the United States, the Building and Supply Committee wishes it understood that in adopting the above-described resolution it did not intend to impugn the personal integrity or motives of the local committee of the League.

"The Building and Supply Committee believes that the members of the local committee are well intentioned citizens, sincerely interested in the preservation of world peace, but that they have allied themselves in this instance with an organization whose purposes are not devoted to the best interests of the United States."

Action was taken at a regular meeting of the Board of Education Friday toward reviving the movement for the erection of a Junior High School in the city of Kingston to relieve the present congestion which exists not only at the high school but in many of the grade schools of the city.

Superintendent Van Ingen was authorized to confer with Mayor Heiselman and arrange a meeting between a committee from the Board of Education and a committee from the Common Council to discuss the problem. Whether this conference between the two city boards will be before a meeting of the council or at a meeting of the board will be determined by the mayor and Mr. Van Ingen.

Action toward reviving the Junior High School proposition came after a long conference between members prior to the regular meeting. The matter was informally discussed by the board prior to the opening of the meeting and various suggestions for temporary relief of the crowded conditions in the city schools were made but ultimately resulted in the opinion that some permanent solution of the problem must be made.

Byrne Offers Resolution

Trustee Byrne offered a resolution that a conference be called between a committee from the board of education and a committee appointed from the Common Council by Judge G. D. B. Hasbrouck offered an amendment to the effect that before such action be taken that Mr. Van Ingen and the Mayor meet and first confer on the procedure. This was adopted unanimously by the board.

Not only is the high school badly overcrowded but the grade schools are overcrowded and steps were taken at the meeting to relieve congestion in No. 7 by the division of one of the rooms into two class rooms and the employment of an additional teacher. A resolution to that effect was offered by the building committee and unanimously adopted.

In offering the resolution for a division of the class room the committee did so as a temporary measure. One class in the school now has 65 pupils.

Supplies Authorized

A resolution authorized the supplies committee to expend a sum not to exceed $300 for additional musical instruments for the high school music class. Trustee Gragin was authorized to purchase supplies not to exceed $200 for the dental clinic which the board recently took over from Kiwanis.

A resolution was adopted granting local teachers the privilege of attending a conference at the South-Eastern Zone of the State Teachers' Association which will be held in New York on October 30. It was agreed that the New York teachers would be more suitable for local teachers than the meeting at Troy.

Superintendent Van Ingen submitted a report showing that 41 local teachers had attended summer sessions at various universities and colleges or taken extension courses for credit. The report pointed out that 107 pupils were registered in the part time school and that night school will commence October 5.

The board adjourned to October 23.

"Defense For Peace"

Washington, Sept. 26 (AP).—Pledged to "an adequate national defense in the interest of peace," Harry H. Woodring, a World War veteran, prepared today to take office as secretary of war. Still in his forties, the Kansas takes command of the nation's land defenses at a time when military officials are expending one of the largest peace-time appropriations in history.

President Roosevelt announced the temporary elevation of the acting secretary to full power over the nation's war machine at the Hyde Park, N. Y., summer White House last night. Woodring succeeds George H. Dern of Utah, who died late last month.

Held For Book Theft

Newark, N. J., Sept. 26 (AP).—Investigation by police of a series of nationwide book thefts was underway today as a man who said he was Stanley Wemyss, 32, of Lima, O., awaited sentence on charges of stealing two rare volumes from the Newark public library. Wemyss pleaded guilty to the Newark thefts and was held in Essex county jail in $5,000 bail for sentencing Tuesday.

Roosevelt and Col. Knox To Take Stand at Party Conventions in State

President Will Clinch 2-Day Democratic Convention at Syracuse Tuesday Night; Knox to Address G.O.P. at Albany.

BOOMS FOR SIX

Six Gubernatorial Aspirants Sound Battle Cries on Eve of G.O.P. Rally at Albany.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 26 (AP).—President Roosevelt and Col. Frank Knox, Republican vice-presidential nominee, will step to the dias at New York state conventions of their respective parties next week to fire the opening salvos in the autumn battle for the 47 electoral votes in the President's home state.

Mr. Roosevelt will clinch the two-day Democratic convention at Syracuse Tuesday night with his first political speech of the campaign, and the Chicago publisher will make a flying visit to Albany the preceding day to address the Republicans.

The President will go to Syracuse from his summer home at Hyde Park, and Knox will come here by train from Chicago. Both plan immediate returns.

The Democrats are slated to renominate by acclamation for a third term the President's friend and successor as chief executive of the Empire State, Herbert H. Lehman. The present state ticket is expected to remain the same.

The President's appearance at Syracuse will climax the drive begun last June at the Democratic national convention at Philadelphia to draft Governor Lehman for a third term despite his announcement that he would not run again.

After the rousing demonstration on the national convention floor, and a personal talk with the President, Lehman returned to Albany and within three days announced he would be a candidate "if the party wants me."

Lehman has been a staunch supporter of the President's policies. Both conventions will be held in huge old-fashioned armories with seating capacities of 5,000 each. It was in the big Albany drill shed, at the Democratic state convention in 1932, that Mr. Roosevelt, soon after receiving the presidential nomination, and former Governor Alfred E. Smith ended their strained relations and joined in support of Lehman's candidacy. Lehman was lieutenant governor during Mr. Roosevelt's four years as New York governor.

Smith, who has announced he would give several speeches opposing the New Deal during the current campaign, will not attend the state convention in his usual capacity as delegate from New York county.

G. O. P. Booms at Albany

Booms for six aspirants for the Republican gubernatorial nomination sounded from as many headquarters today as chieftains and delegates swarmed into this Democratic stronghold for the opening Monday of the party's two-day state convention.

Taking their place along with the camps pitched yesterday for Supreme Court Justice William F. Bleakley and Queens Borough President George L. Harvey were those booming State Senator George R. Fearon and Mayor Roland B. Marvin, both of Syracuse; State Senator Thomas C. Desmond, of Newburgh and Supreme Court Justice O. Byron Brester of Elizabethtown.

Not in many years, veterans of the party said, has there been such an abundance of gubernatorial timber. Meantime, State Chairman Melvin C. Eaton slipped quietly into the city late last night and went directly to the home of a friend after bluntly stating:

"The candidate will be the free choice of an unbossed convention."

He reiterated his determination to play the role of a "neutral," and emphasized that the race is "wide open" despite anyone's claims.

Harvey was the first candidate on the scene to personally direct his campaign, although Fearon, Marvin and Desmond were expected hourly. Justice Bleakley does not plan to attend the convention unless he receives the nomination, and then he will hasten here to accept.

Spain's President Asks Argentine Protection, Report Says; Fascists Bomb Bilbao, Reds Kill Hostages

Coughlin Studies Prelate's Remarks Offering Criticism

Cincinnati, Sept. 26 (AP).—The Rev. Charles E. Coughlin studied in Philadelphia today a rebuke from the Most Rev. John McNicholas of the Cincinnati Catholic diocese for referring to President Roosevelt as "anti-God" and advocating "use of bullets" against "any upstart dictator."

"I remember very well how they persecuted Mohammed," said the Royal Oak, Mich., radio priest as he received last night a report of Archbishop McNicholas' comment, in which the Archbishop said "there is no excuse for inciting in the people a spirit of violent rebellion against conditions which do not actually exist and may never exist."

Archbishop McNicholas expressed hope that Father Coughlin would "retract" the "bullets" assertion and had "transgressed bounds if he made the statement attributed to him—that President Roosevelt is anti-God. The "anti-God" statement followed an assertion by Father Coughlin that Mr. Roosevelt says "destroy and devastate" contrary to Biblical tenets.

Coughlin Knows Meaning

"Father Coughlin knows the meaning now attached to it," he said. "I am making no statement for or against President Roosevelt, for or against the Republican, Democratic or Union parties, but I am insisting, as a public moral teacher, that Father Coughlin transgressed bounds if he made the statement attributed to him—that President Roosevelt is anti-God."

Father Coughlin's immediate superior, Bishop Michael J. Gallagher of Detroit, said he agreed with the radio priest's assertion concerning the statement made Thursday night at a rally of the National Union for Social Justice, which Father Coughlin headed.

Despite reported rumblings of concern from the Vatican, the Detroit priest said last night he expected no rebuke. Some dispatches quoted prelates as seeing possible "a second Vatican 'warning'."

Authoritative Vatican newspaper editor Romano recently rebuked Father Coughlin after he termed the President a "liar."

Replying to a question if he thought a rebuke possible, he said "There's always a possibility. All things are possible, but all things are not probable."

Buenos Aires, Sept. 26 (AP).—Informed sources said today the wife of President Manuel Azana of Spain, the daughter of Indalecio Prieto, minister of war and navy, and other relatives of Madrid cabinet members have been taken under the protection of the Argentine embassy.

They were being taken to the port of Alicante to go aboard an Argentine cruiser, after Azana, himself, was stated authoritatively to have asked for political asylum aboard the warship.

The actual situation in Madrid was doubtful, because of the lack of detailed information from Argentine diplomats.

It was indicated, however, in extra-official reports that the president and other members of the government had asked for the right of Asylum from the Argentine charge d'affaires, first for their families and then for themselves, if they should need it.

The embassy, these reports stated, already has taken Senora Azana and Senorita Prieto under its protection, with the wives and daughters of other members of the government, and has sent them to the southeastern port to go aboard the 25 De Mayo, Argentina's modern 6,800-ton cruiser.

The 25 De Mayo is the only South American warship now in Spanish waters.

It was understood further the wives and daughters of the Spanish cabinet members had asked to be transported to any French port.

Bilbao Bombed

(Copyright, 1936, By Associated Press)

Bilbao, Spain, Sept. 26 (AP).—Ten insurgent airplanes rained bombs into this chaotic city today as vengeance against the city's role in the Spanish civil war. The new aerial attack brought the fresh loss of life and property damage to the battle-stricken city. Victims of the explosions included one of the city's most famous residents, a French girl, and a year-old French girl. The bombing planes dropped leaflets warning the dead had would continue until the city surrendered. The fresh ultimatum brought defiance from the city's command. The city's command threatened to hold out to the last man.

Basque Nationalists labored to maintain order as the frenzied anarchists fought to kill the insurgent bombers in retaliation for the Spanish bombardment which yesterday killed and injured hundreds of persons.

The Basques, striving to maintain their control of this Bay of Biscay port toward which the rebels are driving with hammer-like blows from the east, feared they might be unable to restrain the panic-stricken populace.

Russian State Bank Moves to Depress British Pound by Offering Million Pounds For Sale "At Any Price."

MOVE IS MYSTERY

Securities Prices in New York Stock Exchange Trend Upward as Experts Hail French.

By The Associated Press

The $2,000,000,000 American stabilization fund was immediately brought into play today to protect the dollar in the world exchange markets, as France, after an understanding with England and the United States moved to devalue its currency.

Secretary Morgenthau revealed in Washington that although foreign exchange dealings were virtually at a standstill, the Russian State Bank had moved to depress the British pound by offering 1,000,000 pounds "at any price."

Morgenthau said he immediately bought the sterling, but this was not until in unofficial trading in New York the pound had dropped to $4.91 from yesterday's close of $5.02. Wall Street exchange quarters said they had no knowledge of the reasons for the Russian move. The pound quickly rallied to around $4.96.

Wall Street exchange circles said American authorities were much more interested in the level of the pound, in terms of the dollar, than in any other foreign currency, since declines in the pound have tended to depress American prices.

Prices Trend Upward

Securities prices in the New York Stock Exchange—the major world market open—trended upward, however, as Wall Street experts hailed the French move as constructive and London bankers looked for revival of world trade. In Amsterdam, the stock exchange was quiet, with American issues in demand.

The decision to devalue the franc appeared virtually to have ended the European gold bloc, that group of nations maintaining currencies at pre-depression levels, but the Netherlands authorities indicated that they would continue to maintain the parity of their currency.

In Switzerland, third member of the gold bloc, however, parliament was summoned to convene at the same time the French chamber meets to bring the Swiss franc into line with the devalued French franc.

The French government proposed a plan of devaluation similar to that adopted by the United States three years ago. Involving seizure of all gold in the country at its present value, and establishment of a stabilization fund.

Peaceful Solution Hoped

New York, Sept. 26 (AP).—Hopes for a peaceful solution of the world's monetary problems rose today in wake of action by France to revalue its currency in terms of gold in cooperation with the United States and England.

With the French parliament summoned for an extraordinary session Monday and steps taken to halt the drain of gold from Paris, the franc was regarded in financial quarters as on the verge of joining the circle of currency devaluation traceable to the outbreak of the European money crisis more than five years ago.

Friendly gestures among the three great monetary powers to tide the franc over its present troubles were received hopefully by many bankers and economists as foreshadowing possibly more decisive moves to cure economic ills attributed to currency maladjustments and unstable exchange rates.

Awaiting Details

There was evident, however, a disposition to await further details before jumping to conclusions about the long-range significance of the announcement of a "gentlemen's understanding" to forestall economic warfare among the dollar, the British pound and the franc.

Some had feared devaluation of the franc as the pivot of the so-called European gold bloc currency, would start another currency depreciation cycle to obtain trade advantages.

A. D. Rose, Inc., Now Modern Homes on One of Best Lighted Roosevelt Avenue Markets in Region Open for Inspection

Extensive improvements and remodeling in the grocery store of A. D. Rose, Inc., which were begun this summer and are now practically completed, have made this local food market the best illuminated, and one of the most modern in every respect, in this section of the Hudson valley.

In order to meet the demands of increasing business and to plan for continuing future growth, this long established local firm has remodeled its store on the corner of Franklin and Furnace streets in keeping with the modern ideas of display and merchandising, so that customers can have ready access to all departments, and to much of the merchandise itself, making it easier to purchase their daily food supplies. The partition between the meat department and the rest of the store has been removed, new sanitary steel shelving has replaced the former wood shelving, the entire interior has been rearranged and painted, and modern interior store and display window lighting has been installed.

Effective Displays
The new illumination, which increases the apparent size of the store, displays the merchandise effectively in every section, and helps produce speedier service because of the greatly increased visibility, is provided by an indirect lighting system with a recently improved type of unit. The 16 fixtures, suspended from the ceiling by rigid metal supports, are in themselves a pleasing decorative feature, with their combination of luminous opal glass and silvery aluminum in a simple design. From the 300-watt bulb concealed in each unit a flood of light is directed to the ceiling, from which it is reflected in an evenly distributed, almost shadowless radiance reaching to every corner. These indirect lighting fixtures embody a new type reflector made of aluminum alloy which has been treated to provide a high reflective value, giving maximum efficiency from the current used, as well as the best quality of light. The reflector is also designed to allow a small portion of the light to create a soft white glow through the translucent glass bowl, adding to the decorative effect of the fixture itself.

The display windows now light up to present a brilliant preview of the featured merchandise, with 16 prismatic glass window reflectors directing the rays from their 100-watt bulbs on the showing itself, but not into the eyes of prospective customers.

Local Labor Used
In making the new improvements, local labor was employed throughout the work. The modern illumination was installed by Carl Miller & Son, and assistance in preparing the specifications was given by the lighting service bureau of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp., the painting was done by A. L. Matlack and George C. DuBois and Sons, while the steel shelving was installed by the local representative of the E. O. Bulman Manufacturing Company of Grand Rapids, Mich.

Other improvements, which are in progress to complete this thorough modernization, include a new system of steam heating, and an innovation in fruit and vegetable stands in which a continual mist-like spray of water preserves the freshness of this produce. The firm of A. D. Rose, Inc., has consistently maintained a progressive policy of adopting new and improved equipment as it became available, taking advantage of modern services. Their electric refrigeration system, originally installed ten years ago and recently changed to the latest type of electrically operated ammonia system, supplies the correct degree of cold to protect meats and dairy products in their individual refrigerators and display cases. A separate storage and display case, with its own electric motor-driven system, keeps at a zero temperature the large stock of frozen meats, poultry, fish, vegetables and fruits, the rapid freezing of which by the manufacturer at about 50 below zero preserves their natural fresh flavors, colors, and nutritive values. Electrical grinding and cutting equipment in meat and grocery departments, an automatic gas-operated hot water supply and three direct telephone wires are other evidences of progressive business methods.

Nearly 60 Years Old
The firm of A. D. Rose, Inc., which is nearing its 60th year in business, is 100 per cent a local company, and was founded in Rondout by the late Abram D. Rose, in 1878. The officers are Mary P. Rose, widow of the founder, who is president; A. DuBois Rose and C. C. Rose, his two surviving sons, who hold the offices of vice president and secretary-treasurer, respectively. In 1882 the store moved to Woodstock, and, after 20 years' operation there, moved to the present location on Franklin street in this city, where the business has been conducted ever since. The meat department, established in that year, and the continual addition of new lines of foods as they become available through modern production methods, make this a complete food market. Since 1902, the volume of business has increased more than 10 times, and this local firm now has one of the largest retail delivery stores in its line between New York and Albany.

Delicious Displays
There is a personnel of 18 regular employees, with an additional six on Friday and Saturday. A policy of consistent and extensive newspaper display advertising has been one of the factors contributing to the development of this business and making possible the large telephone trade on weekly and seasonal specials. The greater volume of business is conducted by phone and is essentially on a delivery service basis, requiring the regular operation of the delivery trucks. With the new plan of arrangement, which makes it more convenient for customers to shop and displays the merchandise more attractively, the proportion of store sales is showing an increase.

Beginning tomorrow, two of the three modern residences just completed by Joe Len, well known local builder, and constructed in accordance with the requirements of the Federal Housing Administration for long-term, low-cost financing, will be open for public inspection from 1 p. m. until 9 p. m. daily, through the cooperation of a group of enterprising business concerns in this vicinity, interested in stimulating increased activity in home building and its many allied trades.

These three houses are located on Roosevelt avenue in Kingston's attractive new Roosevelt Park residential section, and are the first of a group of 10 residences which Mr. Len plans to erect there. The first of these homes to be completed has already been sold and has been occupied since early this month by the purchasers, Mr. and Mrs. Charles O. Davis. This is of the bungalow type, but the two neighboring homes, whose doors will be open to the public, are of two story construction. Built on lots of 60 by 120 feet, with sidewalk and curb installed and connection made to the sewer system which was recently completed, these homes are available to prospective home owners on the 20-year mortgage amortization plan of the National Housing Act, through the Federal Housing Administration, with the mortgages on these properties financed through the Kingston Cooperative Savings and Loan Association.

All three of these homes, which are of frame construction and painted cream with green trim, have been well planned and constructed, with careful consideration given not only to present requirements, but also to future needs, as more and more conveniences continue to be developed by leading manufacturers of home equipment. Thorough insulation of rock-wool to a depth of four inches lines all exposed walls and the ceiling area. In each of these residences, a simple compact unit attached to the regular hot water system provides the convenience of dustless, instantly available gas heating for the unsettled weather of spring and fall with its quick changes from summery warmth to shivery cold. A three-wire electrical service provides adequate capacity for the many electrical devices in modern housekeeping, present and future. A generous allotment of switches and convenience outlets facilitates the use of lamps and appliances; living room, dining room and kitchen have no less than four convenient outlets each.

Many other important features of present-day architecture and home planning are embodied in each of the spacious living rooms there is a large fireplace of tapestry brick and tile. There are oak floors in all the rooms. The tiled bathroom has a separate tile-lined shower stall and a mirrored medicine cabinet. Ample closets were part of the plan for each home—a roomy linen closet, a clothes closet for each bedroom, and two for the master bedroom to solve the question of an accurate 50-50 split for Mr. and Mrs. Davis, and a coat and guest closet off the reception hall. The kitchen has convenient working surfaces and built-in closets for dishes, utensils and food supplies, as well as an ironing board recessed into the wall behind a concealing panel. Irregular blocks of blue-stone cemented together form porches and walks.

Each of the two residences which will be open for public inspection have a reception hall, living room, dining room, kitchen, three bedrooms and bath, a light and roomy basement where a modern laundry can be installed, a separate side entrance to kitchen and basement, and one of the homes has, in addition, a dinette and a side porch with stone floor accessible from the living room. There is a detached one-car garage on each piece of property.

The following local firms, individuals and agencies are cooperating with Mr. Len in carrying out this FHA home building activity and in making the homes available for public inspection: The Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation, assistance with specifications for all gas conveniences; Mr. Vogt, assistance with FHA requirements and negotiations; Kingston Cooperative Savings and Loan Association, financing; Augustus Schwabach, architectural plans; Thomas Bohan of Ulster Park, local representative of the John-Manville Corporation, home insulation; Harry Schum, plumbing fixtures and supplies; Soper and Terne, plumbing, including installation of gas, water heater and home heater; Frank M. Saxe, electrical installation and fixtures; Kingston Lumber Corporation, lumber, including sash and door trim; William Spiegel, painting; Homer Emerick, tile work; Alston North, masonry; Herzog Supply Co., Inc., display of electric refrigerator and table-top gas range with regulated and insulated oven; and Percy Silver, carpentry.

Roasts, because they are so universally liked and because they are so easily prepared with so little waste and bother, form the piece de resistance of the greater percentage of company dinners. And it is no wonder, for there is no better morsel than a tender juicy roast, browned to a turn.

Practically, the proportion of store sales is showing an increase. In addition to the store itself, the firm owns a three-story brick warehouse, in which is carried one of the largest retail grocery stocks between the metropolitan and capital districts. The ability to purchase in carload lots and utilize private warehouse facilities affords protection against rising prices and the consequent saving in cost is passed on to the customer. At the present time this warehouse holds the heaviest stock of merchandise in the history of the firm, an indication of the management's conviction that conditions are steadily pulling out of the depression and bringing back to normal.

Jewish Feast of Booths or Sukkoth

Rich in tradition the Jewish Feast of Booths, or Sukkoth as it is known in Hebrew, will be observed this year for eight days beginning at sundown Wednesday, September 30. The eighth day is known as the Feast of Conclusion and on the following day the Feast of Rejoicing in the Law is observed.

In biblical times Sukkoth was an agricultural festival. It was the occasion for Jews to make a pilgrimage to Jerusalem, there to lay sacrifices on the altar of the temple and to sing hymns of praise and thanksgiving to God for His bounty. The destruction of the temple and the disappearance of sacrifice as a form of worship brought changes in the observance of the holiday but the spirit of the festival has not changed. Observant Jews still build a Sukkoth or small booth, in their yards where they eat during the week. It is intended to be a reminder of the time when the Jews lived in such booths during their 40 years of wandering in the desert and of God's goodness to them. The Sukkoth are decorated with fruits and foliage of the fall season to symbolize God's loving kindness. The synagogue too is decorated with fruits and flowers, the palm branch or lulav as it is called in Hebrew, with etrog, or Citrus, sprigs of fragrant myrtle, and boughs of the willow tree. All these represent the harvest character of the festival. Sukkoth is also marked in B'nai B'rith Temple by a ceremony of consecration in which young children are

Junior League Offers Four Supper Dances

The Junior League of Kingston announces a series of four supper dances to be held following each of the concerts sponsored by the Concert Association. The dates of the dances are October 28, November 17, March 22 and April 20. The Governor Clinton Hotel will be the scene of the dances which will last from 10 until 2. A large number of dining rooms have been engaged at the hotel for supper parties. Anyone wishing to reserve one may do so by calling Mrs. G. V. D. Hutton, chairman of the supper committee, or her assistant, Mrs. Jay LeFevre, of New Paltz. As usual either single or patron tickets may be procured. Patron tickets will admit one person to each of the four dances, or one couple to two dances.

Mrs. Allen Hanstein, who will be assisted by Mrs. James Betts, is the chairman of this project. The Junior League hopes for the continued support of its many friends, although departing from its custom of offering a ball or revue. The League is confident that this year it is presenting an opportunity for several pleasant evenings' entertainment during the fall and winter.

Harvest Tea Was Delightful Affair

The usually large and interested group of patrons attended the eleventh annual Harvest Tea held on Tuesday afternoon at the Governor Clinton Hotel by the Ulster Garden Club. A novel feature of this year's tea was the display of tables suitable for certain occasions, arranged by different members of the club. Each guest voted for the table which she considered the best and cast her ballot upon leaving. The "Bridal Dinner Table" received the largest number of votes. This table had been arranged by Mrs. Henry L. Bibby.

The table entitled "Dresden Luncheon Service" was arranged by Mrs. George Washburn. The "Yellow Afternoon Tea" table was submitted by Mrs. Frederick Warren.

Four period tables were displayed. The first by Mrs. Charles De La Vergne was entitled "Luncheon Table, 1778". Mrs. Harry Pearson of High Falls arranged a small table which she entitled "Ulster County Luncheon". Mrs. Frank G. Phelps of Saugerties showed a supper table of three generations ago called "My Grandmother's Supper Table". Mrs. Carlton S. Preston had also arranged "An Old Fashioned Tea Table".

There were also four tables arranged in the style of other countries. The most elaborate of these was the "Japanese Supper Table" shown by Mrs. Edward V. Wilber of Saugerties. Mrs. George V. D. Hutton showed a Mexican luncheon table. Mrs. John W. Searing had a fine display of green hand made Spanish glass entitled "Desert Service". The fourth of the more unusual tables was called "Tiffin Aboard Ship" and had been arranged by Mrs. Gerret Quackenbush.

Mrs. Arthur Sheldon, who recently returned from Texas, was in charge of a large table displaying Mexican cacti.

There was also a large table with vases of all varieties of late summer flowers gathered from the club members' gardens. These were sold as were the fruits and vegetables, also on display.

Tea was served in the smaller dining room. Mrs. Frederick Warren, Mrs. Charles De La Vergne and Mrs. Spencer L. Dawes poured. Miss Rosalene Preston, Miss Jane Pearson, Mrs. Berthold Knauth, Mrs. Sanger Carlton and Mrs. Jacob Tremper assisted in serving the guests. Mrs. George Washburn again acted as general chairman of the Harvest Tea which has become one of the high lights of the early fall social season.

New Legion Auxiliary Officers

At the meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary in the Memorial Building on Friday, September 18, Mrs. Harry D'Aigle concluded her year as president and an election of officers for the coming year followed the business session.

Reports were read by the delegates to the annual state convention of the American Legion in Syracuse, September 3, 4, 5, telling of the splendid work in many fields being carried out by this organization throughout the nation.

Perhaps our greatest problem today is Americanism and the work of the junior groups will do much in this endeavor. It was brought out that in the future the Junior Aids under the leadership of Mrs. William McNamee will be known as The Daughters of the American Legion.

The election of officers was as follows: President, Mrs. Harry Whitney; vice presidents, Mrs. Raymond H. Woodard, Mrs. Joseph Sills; secretary, Mrs. Harry D'Aigle; treasurer, Mrs. Alfred Messinger; executive committee, Mrs. Edward Goschinger, Mrs. Christopher Roche, Miss Mary Keresman. The installation ceremony will take place Wednesday evening, September 30.

The Hurley Reformed Church will hold its annual turkey dinner on Wednesday evening, October 28.

On Monday the Monday Guild of St. John's Church held a luncheon at Maple Arch Farm, Hurley. Covers were laid for eleven.

Kingston Artist Has Sketch of Joe Louis

Mrs. Sophie Ginzburg Miller of 93 Broadway is exhibiting a pencil portrait sketch of Joe Louis at the annual Members' Exhibition of the Art Students' League of 215 West 57th street, New York city, of which she is a member.

This exhibition is open to the public from September 29 through Saturday, October 10, during the League's school hours.

The Art Students' League is a unique institution in that it is run entirely by the student body or members and has reached its sixtieth year of existence successfully. It is governed by a board of control of twelve members elected from the League membership. At least four members must be students actually working in the school. This board, without compensation of any kind carries on all the business of the League.

Twenty-nine of the most distinguished artists are on the faculty, and each instructor has complete freedom in his ideas and methods of teaching, in fact the school is a collection of private ateliers. Such men as George B. Bridgman, leading authority on anatomical drawing in this country, is one of the instructors.

Some of the well-known men that have been connected with the League at some time as instructors or students are: Illustrators, Charles Dana Gibson, James Montgomery Flagg, McClelland Barclay; sculptors, Frederick MacMonnies, William Zorach, Leo Lentulis; painters, John Sloan, George Luks; and Joseph Pennell, the foremost etcher, was also an instructor at the League.

This exhibition will be of interest to Kingstonians visiting the city at this time. The League gallery is one of the largest and best lighted exhibit rooms in New York city. The gallery is open from 9 a. m. to 10 p. m. daily and on Saturday 9 a. m. to 4 p. m., and there is no admission charge for this exhibit.

OFFICE CAT

We can see little hope ahead for the man who has to walk this year. If the fast-running cars don't get him, the fast-talking salesman will.

When the clock struck the midnight hour, father came to the head of the stairs, and in rather loud tone of voice said:

Father: Young man, is your self-starter out of order tonight?

Young Man (calmly): It doesn't matter, as long as there's a crank in the house.

Magistrate: Do you deny that you were driving at an excessive speed?

Motorist: I do!

Magistrate: Can you prove it?

Motorist: Yes; I was on my way to the station to meet my mother-in-law.

A man got a job polishing automobile bodies. During the first week he was taught to polish with only the right hand. The second week he was made to use only the left hand. The next week he had to use both hands.

Foreman (at the end of the third week): Easy, isn't it?

New Man: Yes. Just fix a broom to my pants, and I'll sweep the floor at the same time.

Magistrate: The constable says you were driving through our village at 50 miles per hour. Now, what have you to say?

Young Man: Only this. The young lady and I were on our way to get married. Now if you'll dismiss the charge we'll give you the job.

When the next war breaks out, a local man believes there may not be the same interest in the casualty lists—since people are becoming accustomed to reading the automobile death toll in the newspapers every Monday.

Magistrate: Can you give me any details of the accident?

Sweet Young Thing: Sure. There was a loud bang and I remembered nothing more.

It is true that Rip Van Winkle slept 20 years, but it must be remembered the neighbors and cars didn't have radios.

Father (visiting his son at a boarding school): A nice sort of welcome. I am hardly off the train before you ask me for money.

Son: Well, Dad, you must admit the train was 20 minutes late!

There is today, even among the younger generation, a much greater longing for security, than there is for adventure. Adventure hasn't been turning out well.

Mother: How would you like to go to the country for awhile this summer, Junior?

Junior: I don't want to go where they've got threshing machines. It is bad enough to be thrashed by hand.

A boy says that his best girl has partially returned his affections. She sent back his letters but kept his jewelry.

A young man who had been wandering about the County Court House for half an hour was getting despondent.

Young Man (aloud): I can't seem to find the marriage license clerk's office.

Lounger (commenting): You're very fortunate, I must say.

No woman ever gets too old to fight.

Miss Multitox: Jack dropped in on his way to your reception and proposed to me.

Mrs. Norox: Dear fellow! He is so very energetic. His favorite motto is: "Business Before Pleasure!"

One way to be assured of an income is to make it first and then to make it last.

Junior: Daddy, what's a vacuum?

Daddy: My trousers pockets after you mother has gone through them.

The wilder a political argument grows, the more the disputants talk about sanity.

Now back on the beach they say. Monk in a tree.

It's nighttime by now and as dark as can be.

Monk drops the banana—Puff puts them on deck.

And he and John leave on their South Polar trek.

Magic In The Cotton Fields: Here's How Mechanical Picker Works

DOWN THE FIELD

The flint brothers' new mechanical picker straddles a long row of cotton as a tractor prepares to pull it down the field. The inventor says it will do as much in an hour as a good man in four days.

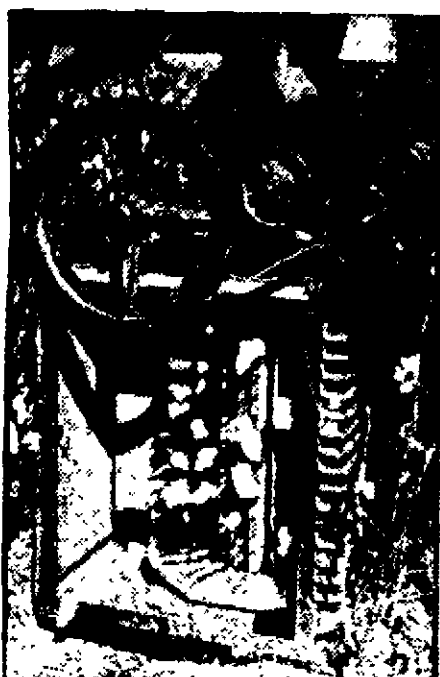

RIPE AND READY

Stubby stalks like this bearing fluffy white balls of staple await their turn for a "hair cut" by the strange new machine.

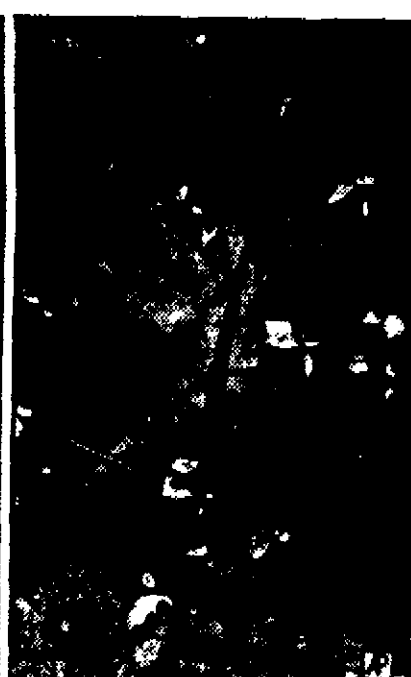

GOING . . .

Into this tunnel on the front of the machine passes the stalk, to be pressed against hundreds of smooth wire spindles twirling on a revolving drum—a substitute for colored fingers.

GOING . . .

The spindles, automatically moistened, pierce the plants and the moisture causes the open cotton to stick and be wrapped around.

GONE!

The cotton is then pulled from the bur, leaving bare stalks such as this after one time over. Green cotton, however, is left to ripen.

IN THE BAG

As the drum revolves, the cotton is stripped from the spindles, thrown into a suction chamber and blown through a chimney-like pipe into a huge bag.

Federal Housing Activity

The Federal Housing Administration reports a considerable increase in activity in Kingston and its vicinity as a result of the National Housing Act. The division of the act pertains to new mortgage structure which permits the mortgagor through local chartered loaning institutions to make application for a loan mortgage for 80 per cent of the appraised value of their homes. It allows the mortgagor as long as 15 years to repay. This is known as the single mortgage system. The home owner is allowed a valuation 80 per cent of the appraised value of the property, with architecture fees if any and payments for replacing the principal interest take the same as the payments of rent. It is very simple for the prospective home owner to figure the approximate amount of his monthly payments if he knows what the annual taxes and fire insurance cost. The actual amount of the mortgage through the Kingston loaning institution is $7.44 per thousand and by using this figure times the number of thousands is applied for and 1-12 of the total of the annual and insurance the result will be the actual monthly payment. This method of paying a home eliminates the hard meeting taxes and insurance lump sum at the end of the year together with the long term amortization system allows the most methods of paying for a home.

Ancient Treadpower
Treadpowers represent a stage in the revolt of man against back-breaking labor. Like sweep-power, another step in farm mechanization, treadpower was operated by oxen and other farm animals pump water, thresh grain, turn a wide variety of machinery. Both types of power gained steam, which enjoyed no acceptance for stationary use on the farm because it was a fire hazard.

Open For Inspection Tomorrow

Photo of the New Joe Len F. H. A. Homes, located on Roosevelt Avenue. These homes are open for public inspection starting at 1 P. M., Sunday, September 27.

The three F.H.A. houses, which have been completed during September by Joe Len, local builder and promoter of attractive residential developments, as the beginning of a group of ten F.H.A. homes in Kingston's Roosevelt Park residential section, are attracting a great deal of attention, and public interest will undoubtedly show considerable increase after two of these homes are made available for public inspection, beginning tomorrow at one in the afternoon.

This new building enterprise of Mr. Len's, in keeping with the present day need for well-built, moderate-priced homes which can be financed at low cost for an extended number of years is in character with past achievements of Mr. Len, since he began his career as a builder after he made his home in Kingston seventeen years ago.

During his residence here Mr. Len has built approximately fifty houses; he developed Len Court where in 1928 he purchased the property, erected ten houses, put the street through, installing curb and sewer, and turned the street over to the city; and he handled the extensive construction, remodeling and improvements which transformed the building at the corner of Broadway and St. James street into the present modern Franklin Apartments.

The Wart Hog

The wart hog inhabits Eastern Africa from Abyssinia to the Zambezi river. Other members of the same homely family can be found over most of the African continent. They usually live along streams and in holes in the ground. The warty tusks of the wart hog are highly prized by some natives of Africa, who extract them and string them together in necklaces.

Many Infringement Suits

Between 1886, when a patent on the Roberts torpedo, a device for shooting oil wells, was granted, and 1880, when its legality was upheld by the United States Supreme court, notes a writer in Collier's Weekly, infringements were so widespread that they resulted in the filing of 16,000 suits and countersuits. And Roberts won every one that was brought to a decision.

Accidents Increase

Accidents at highway-railroad grade crossings in the first six months of this year totaled 1,929, an increase of 109 compared with the corresponding period in 1935. Persons injured in such accidents totaled 2,270 in the first half of this year, an increase of 105 compared with the same period last year.

Fashions and Household Hints for Women

Fur Trims And Fitted Waists Set Off The New Coats

From fitted waistline to full bordered hem this black wool coat shown in Fashion Futures is typical of the season's trend. It has the fur trim in nutria collar and band and the slender full skirted silhouette which spell chic this year. The shoes, too, are indicative of smart fall fashions, comprising black suede and kid and rising in a high front line.

By ADELAIDE KERR

New York, (P)—"Black beauty" fashions, new face styles and coiffures without a single wave came to town in "Fashion Futures"—the Fashion Group's gigantic style pageant showing how the smart American woman should look this winter.

The huge display stressed the importance of clothes as black as jet relieved by touches of jewel-like color. Black suits, black dresses, topped by black coats luxuriously trimmed with fur, ebony hued evening gowns and black hats finished with a towering colored velvet drap such as red and rose were shown.

New Fur Trim.

Coats are decked in new luxurious fur trims—mink lined borders, twining silver fox scarfs, bands and pockets—and are nine times out of ten fitted close to the waistline and flared in the skirt.

Wool is the season's outstanding fabric. It appears in tweed evening wraps with gorgeous jeweled revers,

This wool tweed evening wrap cut on the soberest lines splashes the anomaly of velvet revers embroidered with glittering gold flowers and shimmering colored beads. Scaparelli designed the original. All three models are Fashion Originators' Guild adaptations of Paris models displayed in America's biggest style pageant—Fashion Futures.

In broadcloth coats and suits, in weed sports clothes and wool daytime dresses and coats.

As for make-up, the mannequins' faces, done by a leading American beauty expert, decreed an effect of naturalness for the winter of 1936-37. A dark skinned brunette wearing olive greenation, a coral toned rouge, peach colored powder, vivid lipstick and peacock green eye shadow so that her face glowed with natural-looking color. Faces generally were smooth, lipstick vivid and eye shadow keyed to the color of the eyes.

Heads Kept Small.

One of the new hair dresses, created by Guillaume of Paris, was a page boy coiffure, with hair parted across the top of the head, bangs rolled under across the forehead and locks rolled under again at the nape of the neck. An evening coiffure worn a low cut Edwardian gown was swept back from the face into close curled coils, then swept back again into curls simulating the three Prince of Wales plumes. Heads were kept small, closely curled rolls were featured, and the old marcel wave was virtually banished.

Other fashion notes which were stressed: Borders are important, appearing in wide fur hems on coats, fitted jackets and dresses.

Stove Pipe Hats.

Hats are black, high and a trifle exotic—Persian cone toques, stove pipes, and toques with tall twisted drapes. Twists of danger red or golden oak velvet often accent them. Gloves are occasionally colored to match the trim.

Luxurious mink trim in a wide tuxedo closing and round upstanding collar stamps this black wool coat for 1936-37. Note the slightly shortened length, simplicity of the sleeves and the wide leather belt with the copper fastening. The black velvet toque is finished with a colorful touch of danger red velvet and a frothy veil.

Proper Planting Depth for Tulips

By The Master Gardener

Many folks have a rather hazy idea as to the proper depth to plant tulip bulbs, so I thought an article on proper planting depth might be appreciated.

Planting depth is very important. An average soil, a good depth to plant tulips is 4 to 5 inches from the top of the bulb. In heavy soils, do not plant quite as deep. In light soils, plant an inch deeper. It is better to err on the side of planting too deep rather than too shallow.

Deep planting is also advisable where the bulbs are not to be dug and reset each season.

Climate also is a factor to be reckoned with in determining depth of planting. In a warm region, planting should be somewhat deeper than in a cool climate, for tulips prefer the cool temperature and uniformity of moisture and temperature that the deeper planting gives. Do not plant shallow and then ridge soil over the rows to secure the necessary depth, for this does not provide the cool atmosphere liked by the tulip bulb. The heat penetrates the soil in such a planting.

In preparing the soil for your tulip beds, remember that bulbs are grow feeders and must be supplied with an abundance of plant food if they are to thrive. After the soil has been carefully prepared, a complete balanced plant food should be well mixed with the soil, applying at the rate of 4 pounds per 100 square feet. Where planted in single rows for borders, apply plant food at the rate of 4 pounds per 100 feet of row. Put in bottom of trench, mix with the soil, and then cover with a half-inch of soil before the bulbs are set in.

If you are attempting a difficult arrangement, ask the florist for a few lengths of wire to hold up frail blooms.

Lunch May Rule Day at School

Ithaca, N. Y., Sept. 26—A good day at school or at work may be due to the kind of lunch mother packed that day, says the New York state college of home economics.

Food is first in a well-packed lunch, but the lunch box used and the way it is packed may either make or mar the food; and it may decide whether a sensitive youngster hides in the bushes or eats from it proudly with his friends.

According to the college, a well-packed lunch may consist of sandwiches; fresh, canned or dried fruit, a relish such as celery, olives, pickles, radishes, carrot strips, and lettuce hearts; pudding, fruit sauce, or baked fruit, cookies, cake, doughnuts, or individual pies, or turnovers for dessert; and a beverage such as milk, cocoa, tea or coffee, depending on the person for whom it is intended.

Snap and variety may be added to a packed lunch in the form of fruit, meat, fish or vegetable salads; plain hard-cooked or stuffed eggs; soups or chowders in a thermos bottle, or cheese.

The college suggests tin boxes or pails to carry lunches because these are easily sterilized. They can be cleaned, scalded, and aired easily and quickly, and holes can be punched in them for ventilation. Containers should also be odorless, durable, light, easy to carry and attractive, the college says.

House plants are air conditioners to a small extent. They help keep the air fresh and humid.

If time does not permit you to make your own flower arrangement, call the florist; he will be glad to oblige.

There is no flower more suitable to carry for a fall wedding than the gladiolus.

Because you have a very beautiful, though ornate, flower container, don't feel obliged to use it. The simple one will be more attractive.

A sturdy pair of gloves is a useful accessory for the flower lover, especially for handling roses.

Period Furniture Is Reborn

Truer Copies Designed By Moderns

By MARY DAVIS GILLIES

Prepared by McCall's Magazine for The Freeman

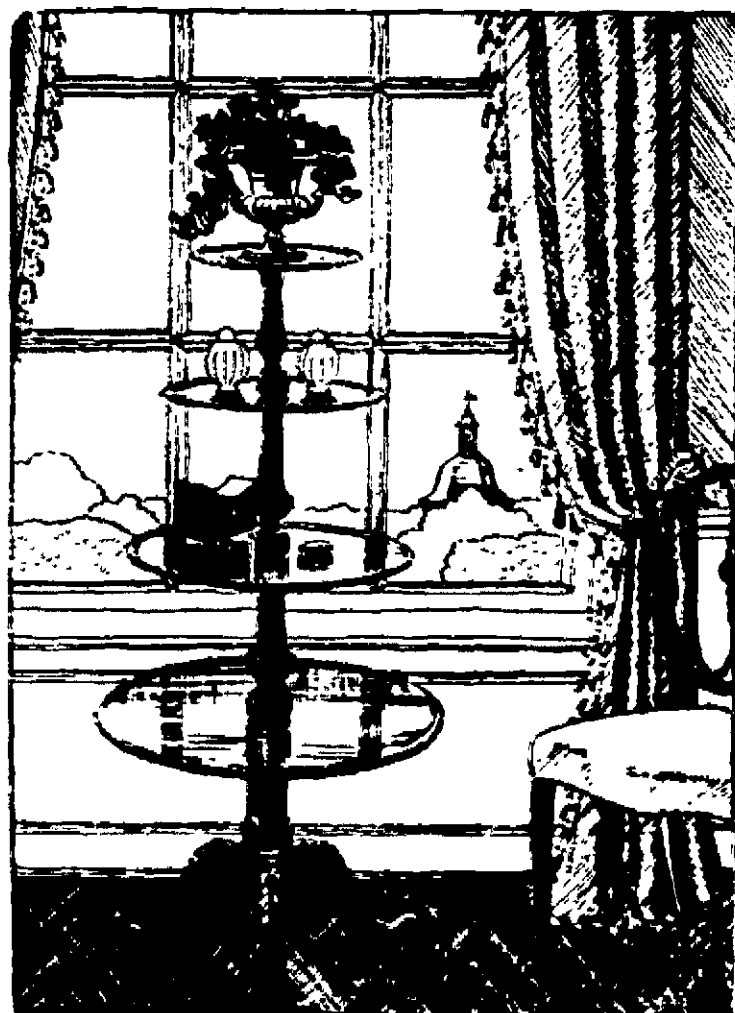

Even if you don't like modern furniture, you should be very grateful for it.

Because of modern furniture, you can now get better period furniture in any period you like—more beautiful, more comfortable, better made and much truer to the spirit of the originals.

In the first years of the modern style, the effort of the designers was to be different—and they were—as different as possible from beauty. Then the designers began to study just what it was which made the good designs of the past so good and the result was that they not only were able to make modern design beautiful but they learned how to reproduce the true lines of the early periods.

The meaningless, glorified curlicues, the jumble style and the fake "period styles" are not with us any more. The moderns tried to replace the horrors of "antiques" and grandiose furniture and in doing so they have brought us safely back a hundred, even three hundred years. That's why those who don't like the modern are welcoming the new reproductions which are so much nearer the old.

There is a new maple collection, for instance, true Early American because they were based on originals found in old New England and Pennsylvania homes. Instead of the familiar bent-legged finish, a new and health has been developed—a huge grey like rubbed down old pine. It's lovely against some of the new reproduced wallpapers with mustard yellow, greens, soft sage green and blue, in quaint chintz designs. Another notable group is in 18th century mahogany, including tables and desks for almost every use. They are beautiful enough to be treasured heirlooms of tomorrow.

These pieces are typical of the improved reproductions modern designers are making of period furniture.

Bright Contrasting Colors Distinguish Autumn Flowers

Flery Orange Tithonus and Lavender-White Aster Combine With a Few Hints of Berries in This Stunning Effect.

The Japanese have the lovely custom of decorating their homes with flowers according to the season. Although American florists have developed many flowers so that they are available all the year around there is always added charm in flowers that we have only for a short season.

As the trees take on their brilliant fall hues and the crisp autumn air adds an invigorating tang to life, what is more appropriate than fiery orange tithonus, or red-hot poppers as they are often called, in a low bowl of matching color and masses of white and lavender asters to accentuate the colorful effect?

An arrangement of this type as shown in the illustration gives the necessary reasonable touch to a dining or buffet table and is charming on the mantel. The shrubby asters are placed irregularly in an informal series of hithermost berries are added to tie together the orange of the bowl and the tithonus.

Whether we have a tiny bowl of tithonus, an arrangement as pictured here, or a large vase of gorgeous chrysanthemums, the splash of autumn color will make the interior of our homes as bright and festive as nature is out-of-doors. Autumn flowers are most reasonable in price and nothing can take their place in making our homes more attractive to our friends and guests as well as for our own family.

MODES of the MOMENT

Luxurious Simplicity Marks New Handbags

The smartest bags designed for fall costume accessories are made of good materials and cut on the plainest lines. This big silver metal envelope is accented only by three wide metal initials which are picked up by the bag. It is carried with a black wool frock trimmed in silk, broad shimmering Persian lamb worn with a forward-flung top of black felt accented by a fringe inset.

Vacation? Phooey!—School's More Fun; Kids Learn As They Play Under New Plan

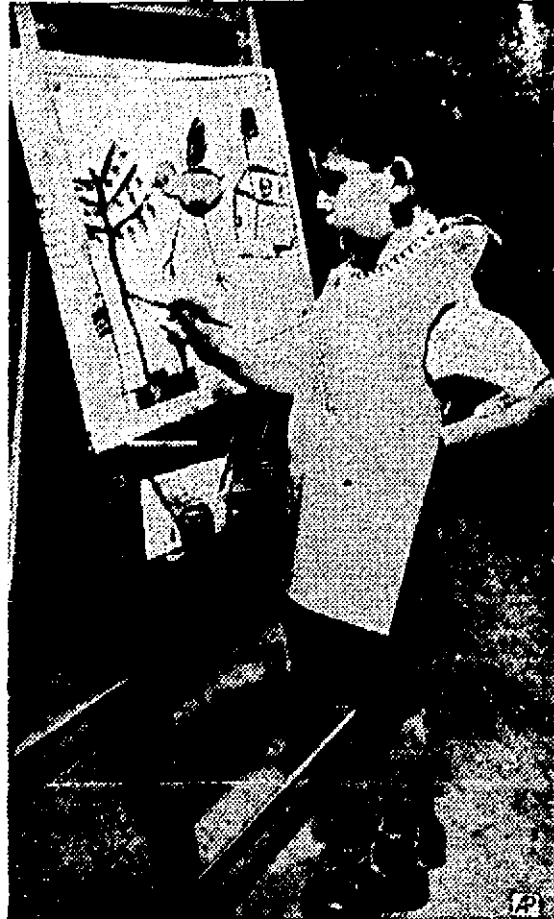

GIRL AT WORK

School offers many attractions for youngsters nowadays—such as basket weaving which holds this little girl's attention.

FUTURE TIMBETTS?

Well, anyway, glee club material. Modern sons get a kick out of trying their voices at song as well as yelling over games on the playground.

YOUNG CHEATOR

Today's schools baffle in developing talent young—as witness this little man expressing himself with brush and paint.

From "All The Children," 37th annual report of superintendent of schools, New York City

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE

Constructive Play

Washington—Many youngsters go eagerly to school these days for they find it more fun than vacation.

That's the observation of educators who attribute the abrupt change of attitude to a modernized educational system. School work today is made interesting and meaningful instead of the boring duty it was in the old days. It is designed as a link to the actual life of the community.

A thousand and one new practices are being employed. For instance, "Dossie" is brought to the schoolroom on a truck so that city children can see—many of them for the first time—where milk comes from.

Dr. Mary D. Davis, federal specialist in primary education, says children are finding constructive pleasure outlets for their potential abilities in activity programs ranging from the building of model houses and the running of play restaurants to the interviewing of merchants about their business, the making of dictionaries and the publishing of class newspapers.

Tots in kindergarten build miniature street cars and motor buses, and set up traffic signals to prevent accidents. Second grade students learn about community life by building model towns, preparing food for their lunches and operating post offices. Children 5 and 6 years old participate in demonstrations of flour and butter making.

3 R's More Palatable

"There was a time not so long ago," says Dr. Davis, "when it was thought the whole function of the primary grades was to give children increasing practice in mastery of reading, writing and arithmetic."

"Skill in the three R's is still essential but this skill can be developed in connection with life-like experiences giving the children a desire to master subjects which formerly were crammed down their unwilling throats by conscientious but overworked teachers," she says.

And an increasing number of parent groups meeting in the schools are finding the new activity programs in reality more practical than the old methods of cut and dried study and recitation.

Old School "Like Factory"

Only a decade ago, she points out, the elementary school was described as "like a factory with the children living in a thoroughly regimented world." Immovable seats in orderly rows fixed the sphere of each child's activities. From the timid six-year-old entering for the first time to the most assured high school senior the routine was much the same.

There were study periods in which children learned "lessons" from textbooks prescribed by the state and recitation periods in which they told the teacher what the book had said. Children recited the battles of the Civil War in one period; the rivers of Africa in another and the parts of speech in a third.

"Big Shots" Taken Down

The old "perfect participle" and "absolute absolute" still have places in school training but they are not the educational "big shots" they formerly were. A high school class today teaches the seventh graders how to use the library; a primary class gets ready for an excursion to a farm, factory, store or museum.

Sixth grade pupils read the newspapers and report daily on important events. They write and present plays, study soil, flowers and crops. Jack brings a mongrel puppy to school and teacher encourages the children in study and care of the animal.

Today's children are learning to conserve property and health, to respect the rights of others, and in their education rests the hope for preservation of American democracy, Dr. Davis declares.

A few odds and ends, particularly the ability of the Tigers and Cardinals to hang on for second place money in their respective leagues, are all that remain before the boys pack this dying baseball campaign in the mothballs.

The Giants and Yankees are "as champions and contenders in an all-New York World Series. Philadelphia's two bands of sandloters have a monopoly on the rather doubtful cellar honors. They can't get out.

But the final makeup of the complete first division in both leagues won't be decided until the campaign hits the finish line tomorrow.

The Cardinals are sure of at least a tie for second place in the National League, but lost out on a chance to clinch the runner-up berth yesterday when they dropped a 3-2 decision to the Reds. This left the Cubs, who were idle, a chance to pull up to a tie in the two games remaining for each club.

At the same time, the Pirates, who also had a day off yesterday, along with the Phillies and Dodgers, will were in position to nose out the Cubs for third place honors in their last two tilts.

Over in the American League, the Detroit Tigers still can be beaten for second place either by Washington or Chicago, and the White Sox will can overtake the Senators for third, if the Tigers come through in second.

The Indians, early-season favorites for the pennant, lost their chance to make the first division when they split a double-header with the Browns yesterday, dropping the first game 8-2 before Elton Hoggsett's shut pitching, and then taking the nightcap 7-6, with Earl Averill's 20th homer of the season featuring.

The Senators picked up ground on the idle Tigers in the race for second place by walloping the helpless Red Sox 9-3 on the strength of Jimmy DeShong's effective pitching. The White Sox, as well as the Tigers, had a scheduled holiday.

The two champions, the Giants and Yankees, breezed through to a victory apiece, although the Athletics made the American League flag when they pulled out a 6-5 win, while the Bees held on to the finish before giving the Giants a 3-2 decision.

Albany Wrestling Card Wednesday

Tony Garibaldi, youngest of the trio of brothers who are starting to rival the Dusek boys as a wrestling attraction, will make his debut in the 10th Infantry Armory, Albany Wednesday night against George Linphan of Boston.

The bout, a 30-minute engagement, will be a companion piece to a match between Jack Donovan, red-headed Boston star who is back in action after a long layoff because of injuries suffered in an auto accident, and Steve Budynas, Schenectady heavyweight.

Gino Garibaldi will meet Ed. N. in the main event, while Ralph Garibaldi will tackle Mike Marini in the semi-final.

Tony has scored several victories since following his brothers in the mat business. He resembles Gino in action more than Ralph, who is Gino's belligerent type.

Schneider and Maines Show Well In Maroon Workout

The Maroon and White platoon pushers terminated their third week of pre-game preparation by engaging in their fifth successive scrimmage. Coach Kias divided the first two squads into teams of equal strength and the result was an evenly-contested struggle. Tommy Maines tore through a wide gap at tackle to climax a long march down the field.

"Gal" Studer attempted a drop-kick but it was just a little wide of its destination. Schneider, stockily built halfback, featured during the early stages of the performance by getting away for a 30 yard gallop and then spearing a pass from amidst three defenders. His showing yesterday was the dominating factor in his squad's advances and he performed well on defense as well. Tommy Maines got off several long-range boots to turn back scoring thrusts. The pass-grabbing on both teams was nifty to behold but the tackling was not up to standard.

Before the contact work, Coach Kias sent the first two aggregations through a passing drill and then followed with a series of punt-covering maneuvers involving the kick-off. Both defensive and offensive stations were given proper instructions as to their assignments. Both Rifenburg and Holstein who did the kicking-off got off some distance-smashers with "Rif" particularly effective. With the Klasmen entering the home-stretch before the initial encounter with Liberty, the Maroon mentor has brought his squad along in fine fashion and a cohesive unit will take the field. During the past three weeks great strides have been made and Kingston will have a combination worthy of wearing the Maroon and White and of the support of Kingston fandom.

Kingston High School is to play its four local games in an enclosed area. Coach C. Warren Kias gave definite assurance that all scheduled home contests at the Fair Grounds will be held at that site. Due to the open condition of the field at present it was very problematical as to the staging of the games listed on the Maroon and White local menu. However, the Maroon mentor has been considering the possibility of installing a canvas enclosure and yesterday stated that negotiations had been completed for its purchase. The canvas strip will be approximately eight feet high and is of durable material. With an attractive home schedule of Poughkeepsie, Schenectady, Port Jervis and Norwich, Kingston fandom can now rest assured in the knowledge that home games will be played as scheduled.

Clowns, Chichester Closi Picks N. Y.

The Clot Clowns will play Chichester Sunday afternoon at Lanesville, instead of Napanoch at that village. Manager Angelo Closi announced this himself this morning, when he called at The Freeman editorial department and almost caused a riot with his prediction on the World Series.

"I'm here," said Closi, "to announce that the Clowns will play Chichester Sunday, not Napanoch, on account of a cancellation."

The busy Delaware avenue grocer was then ready to dash out, but was stopped by a sports writer.

"Just a minute, Closi. Who do you think will win the World Series?"

Picking up a couple of baseball pictures, studying them for a minute, he remarked:

"Well, I don't know. It's hard to say, but I think it'll be New York."

The sports reporter turned a back flip, two other local baseball managers fainted, and Closi made a dash for his grocery truck to hurry around with the Saturday deliveries.

In the Chichester game, Jack Dodge will pitch for the Clowns. "Red" Lane probably will be his opponent.

Pretty soft for Johnny Q. Voter right now, with all the things candidates are promising him.

FORMER KINGSTON BOY WINS SHOOTING MEDALS.

Wesley J. Van Natten, formerly of Kingston, and now residing in Poughkeepsie, returned from Camp Perry, Ohio, where he competed in the national rifle matches for three weeks as a member of the C. M. T. Rifle Team, under the supervision of the War Department. He maintained highest score in the 2nd Corps Area and won four medals, one being sent to him from Washington. He also received a certificate of proficiency and recommended as instructor in rifle marksmanship.

While in Ohio, he visited the Great Lakes Exposition in Cleveland, and other points of interest, also Niagara Falls.

Mr. Van Natten is 18 years old and graduated last June from Kingston High School. He is now entered at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in Troy to take up the study of chemical engineering.

Games At Five Plains.

Five Plains, N. Y., Sept. 26 (AP)—Army war games brought spectacular chemical warfare to the north country today. A platoon from the Second Separate Chemical Battalion, Edgewood Arsenal, Md., and a detachment of the Chemical Warfare Service, received orders to lay a smoke screen by firing shells along the border of the camp where the Second Infantry Brigade is holding two weeks maneuvers.

J. Volney Lewis and Sumner M. Anderson, national park service geologists, have just completed the first comprehensive geologic examination of the lava beds at Lava Beds National Monument, Calif.

Babcock Herd Won 14 Prizes at Fair

Manager William Mellert of Babcock Farms dairy, Hurley avenue, was a proud man today. He had reason to be, because his entries in the Ulster County Fair cleaned up in competition Friday.

This morning when asked by a reporter how his cattle made out, Mellert replied:

"The Babcock herd cleaned up. Our stock took 10 first prizes and four seconds. Not bad, eh?"

Mellert praised Charles Barnett, his efficient cattle man, and gave him credit for having the stock in the fine condition that impressed the judges. Barnett had 10 entries in the fair, the choice of the Babcock herd of 30 cattle.

Winning blue ribbons is nothing new for Barnett. He started taking the blue ones when a 4-H Club member, winning at the Ulster County Fair and also at the State Fair in Syracuse when he won the honor of being the best cattle judge, competing with students of 127 agricultural schools.

Fordham Rams Biggest, Fastest And Most Promising Says Crowley

New York, Sept. 26 (AP)—Fordham has the biggest, fastest, and most promising football squad in years, but if they don't win a major game Coach Jimmy Crowley won't be surprised.

"I feel at home with this squad because they're big and I can't pronounce their names," says Crowley, "but we're playing so many tough teams that we can have a good year and still lose almost every ball game."

By tough teams, Crowley means Southern Methodist, St. Mary's (California), Pittsburgh, Purdue, Georgia and New York U., all of which meet the Rams in New York.

To meet this schedule, Crowley has a nucleus of the following 16 players:

John Druze, Irvington, N. J., and Joe Paquin, Brockton, Mass., ends; Al Babarsky, Shenandoah, Pa., Jim Lawler, Astoria, N. Y., and Ed Varion, Jersey City, N. J., tackles; Vincent Lombardi, Brooklyn, Phil Varion, Edgelynton, Pa., and Nathan Pierce, Biddford, Me., guards; Edix Gangemi, Freeport, N. Y., and Alex Wojelchowiez, South River, N. J., centers; and Captain Francis Mautte, New Haven, Conn., Joe Dulkie, Lowell, Mass., John Lock, Plains, Pa., Warren Mulvey, Malden, Mass., Andy Palau, Bristol, Conn., and Joe Wolkoski, Pittsfield, Mass., backs.

Both Babarsky and Franco earned their letters as guards, but Babarsky was shifted to tackle in spring practice and Franco was moved over this week.

The rest of the line is pretty well set. Paquin and Druze, last year's regular flankers, will be at ends; Lombardi will be at left guard and Mike Kochei, a sophomore from Bloomfield, N. J., probably at right. Wojelchowiez is sure of his center position, and the backfield probably will be made up of Palau, quarterback, Mautte and Al Gurske, a newcomer from Bristol, Conn., at the halfback, and Dulkie, fullback.

Gurske is Crowley's hope to replace last year's captain, Joe Manne. He is a rugged, swift, 190-pound ball-carrier who can pass. Crowley hopes he will develop into the key man in the Fordham offense.

The schedule, with all games in New York:

October 3—Franklin and Marshall; 10—Southern Methodist; 17—Yankeeburg; 24—St. Mary's; 31—Pittsburgh; November 7—Purdue; permanently open; 21—Georgetown; 28—New York University.

An exceptionally strong defensive line last year, Fordham this year is expected to throw the ball around. Crowley promises this much: "We'll be running from the same formations that we have a new cycle of plays and we're going to see what can be done about speeding up our offense."

The schedule, with all games in New York:

October 3—Franklin and Marshall; 10—Southern Methodist; 17—Yankeeburg; 24—St. Mary's; 31—Pittsburgh; November 7—Purdue; permanently open; 21—Georgetown; 28—New York University.

Football Season Gets Off Today To a Good Start

New York, Sept. 26 (AP)—Although it will be running from now until Thanksgiving or later, the football season gets off the mark today like a sprinter starting a 50-yard dash.

At Seattle, Washington, considered one of the strongest Pacific coast eleven, takes on Minnesota, co-champion of the Big Ten last year and apparently just as strong this season.

Another Pacific coast headliner sends Stanford's Indians weakened by the graduation of 16 lettermen, against Santa Clara, the best of the day's candidates to score an upset.

In the south, Duke's Blue Devils encounter the Red Raiders of College in another intercollegiate game. Louisiana State, Southeastern Conference champion, encounters Rice, Southwest Conference member.

While these four are tops for the day, a number of other good games serve to keep the fans' attention away from baseball, polo and politics in various sections.

The Big Ten teams start off with the Chicago-Lawrence, Iowa-Carlton, Purdue-Ohio University, Wisconsin-South Dakota State and Illinois-DePaul.

The east's best games, as most leading teams open against easy opposition, are Pittsburgh-Ohio Wesleyan and Navy-William and Mary.

There are no hints of upsets on the southwest's program but on the west coast Southern California may run into trouble against Oregon State.

There were some surprising results in last night's games, although there were no major contests. Temple's Owls and Auburn's Plainsmen showed surprising strength in whipping Centre 50-7 and Birmingham Southern 45-0, respectively. Georgia Tech looked fully as good in routing Presbyterian 56-0. On the other hand Bucknell barely beat out Ursinus 6-0 and Duquesne came out 14-0 ahead of Wayneburg. Kentucky gave a neat exhibition in beating a tough Xavier outfit 21 to 0.

DeCicco Confident Hedricks Can Take Over Colonials on Sunday

Manager Jimmy DeCicco, of the Hedricks, was confident today that his tossers would come out on top in their game with the Colonials at the Pan-Am diamond, Saugerties road, Sunday afternoon. Starting time is 2:30.

"We won the City League championship, didn't we? The Hedricks are playing the same brand of ball now as when they copped the pennant, and I can see no reason why we can't stop the Colonials."

Last Sunday DeCicco's tossers walloped Manager Fred Davi's veterans, 7-1. In a diamond show that featured Joe Brown, youthful hurler, who struck out 12 of the Colonial batters, and permitted only seven hits of the scattered variety.

"Brownie is in good shape," said DeCicco when a scribe asked him if he would use him again. "Why shouldn't we send him to the mound? He can repeat, I think. Furthermore, with Joe on the hill, we should pack 'em in like flies."

Brown is a popular young pitcher, and has lots of backers who probably will be around Sunday to lay their change on his chances of bringing through the Hedricks.

Rutherford, who did a good relief job last week, pitching against Brown, may get the call from Manager Davi to start. However, this is not a certainty, and Shackett may go in to begin the fray. And, may be, Bill Thomas will pitch. This Pennsylvania leaguer, home from a big season, will be with the Colonials Sunday, according to reports.

Manager Davi expects to revamp the Colonial lineup for the deciding clash. Jani Joyce, Charley Lay, Jim

"Government of, By and for the People" Traced

According to Rev. H. Barker's "English Bible Versions," the first appearance of this phrase "government of the people, by the people and for the people," found in Lincoln's Gettysburg speech was in the preface of the old Wicliffe Bible, translated before 1380, in which it is declared that "this Bible is for the government of the people, by the people and for the people." The Home Book of Quotations states that a careful examination has failed to disclose this passage in the Wicliffe Bibles available.

Theodore Parker used the phrase in three different addresses, delivered in 1830, 1834 and 1835, to illustrate what he called the American idea of democracy.

Daniel Webster used almost the same words in a speech in 1830. John Adams in an address in 1776 employed the phrase "a government made by themselves (the people), for themselves and conducted by themselves." Thomas Cooper in 1793 published a pamphlet in London entitled "Some Information respecting America" in which he stated "The government is a government of the people and for the people."

Giant Outfield One Great Factor Against Yankees in World Series

By ALAN GOULD, Associated Press Sports Editor.

New York, Sept. 26 (AP)—From every angle except speed and perhaps color, for whatever that elusive element is worth at the world series payoff window, the New York Giants excel their Yankee neighbors in outfield equipment for the forthcoming frolic on opposite banks of the Harlem river.

The National League, all things considered, have the best all-around outfield in baseball at the current writing, regardless of whether Hank Leiber or Jim Rippel teams the middle garden between Joe Moore and Mel Ott.

This takes into consideration the three essential factors of hitting, fly-catching and throwing. It holds true in spite of the slump of Leiber, who dropped from a .330 slugger in 1935 to a part time worker this season hitting only .230 and consequently yielded to Jim Rippel, product of the International League.

The Yankees have a youthful and relatively inexperienced outfield trio. The combination of Jake Powell and George Selkirk, flanking the sensational Joe DiMaggio, hosts an aggressive major league background of only a half dozen years.

DiMaggio is the big question mark. The 21-year-old kid from Frisco has had a wonderful first year under the big top. His bat, his grand throwing arm, his confidence and poise had much to do with instilling the old winning spirit in the Yankees.

Can Jarring Joe come through under the tension and pressure that only a world series, with its big money stake, involves? On the answer to that may hinge the outcome of the interborough warfare.

Rated off his flop in the all-star game at Boston, it would seem DiMaggio can suffer from too much spotlight.

DiMaggio's season record excels that of any Giant outfielder except Ott. He has a decided edge in all-around hitting over either of his center field rivals, Leiber and Rippel.

The Giant attack pivots around Ott, now in his ninth full season at the ripe old age of 27. He has had one of his best years.

Selkirk, the Yankee right fielder, packs a solid punch and is fleetest of foot than Ott, but not otherwise in the same class with his Giant rival.

In left field, Jobo Moore has an equally decisive margin over Powell, except in aggressiveness and speed.

The Yankees are shy of outfield substitutes. Bob Seeds is the only able bodied reserve, since Myril Hoag was put on the shelf by an accident. The Giants have George Davis, a regular until Leiber and Rippel came along.

Kristics and Hurons to Battle Sunday For Rural "Championship"

One ardent rooter for the Kristic A. C. in its battle Sunday afternoon for the rural championship of Ulster county with the Huron Indians will be Thomas Kristic of Rosendale.

This Rosendale man, owner of Kristic Field, home diamond of the team named for him, regards the club as "a reputable team" and if it wins the "championship" he probably will be one of the happiest men in the old cement village.

But Fred Baumgarten, manager of the Hurons, is positive this will never happen and right now is planning on what the Indians ought to do with the $100 side bet which is upon the game. Freddie is only hoping that his batters are in the form they were last week when they walloped the White Ducks, 7-1.

Thomas Kristic, a former Rosendale baseball player himself, having romped over the base-paths with such men as Jimmy Flemming, William Flemming, Joe Smith, William Delaney, Frank Murphy and Lawrence Smith, is one of the Ulster county residents who believe in athletics as promotional efforts for the various communities.

"At the time that the boys representing the Kristics asked me for the use of my field, I asked them to name their club the Rosendale B. B.," wrote the Rosendale booster in a letter to the sports department, "but instead they called the club the Kristic A. C."

Mr. Kristic inferred that although he appreciated the honor, he was not a publicity seeker.

"The Kristics are a reputable team, and any such club is welcome to play on my field," he wrote. The ball players who approached, Mr. Kristic stated, were Gil Keld, Johnny Regan, D. Rask, P. Rask, R. Snyder and H. Rask and Yonetti.

Reveries having a warm spot in his heart for the Kristics as favorites Sunday, Mr. Kristic hopes to make a big play against the Hurons, his letter indicates. He blames the Indians for not taking care to observe agreements when that club used his field for two seasons. This is another reason why he'll be in the cheering section on the opposite side tomorrow.

Those Missing Grapes.

One portion of Mr. Kristic's letter states that the Hurons were sent of a measure to his grapes and vegetable crop. "When I told him we were the same," he wrote, "he went after them and trampled on my vegetables, and towards the end of the season took bunches of grapes along with the vegetables."

"I did not want to have any arguments with the Hurons manager about it, but decided not to let them have the field any longer as they did not appreciate it."

Undoubtedly the Kristics feel the same as the owner of their playground. This along with the baseball rivalry for the rural championship, goes a long way to assure a real feud at Kristic Field Sunday afternoon.

Prospects Bright For Grand Circuit

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 26 (AP)—With 400 horses on the ground, including Rosalind and Greyhound, respective winners of the Hambletonian this year and last, and Twilight Sonx, champion two-year-old trotter, prospects for the 64th annual grand circuit meeting, which opened here today, are considered the brightest in history.

The inaugural day features will be the two-year-old trotting Futurity and the $2,000 Walnut Hall Cup 2:14 trot. Three other races on the card will bring together some of the outstanding performers in the lower divisions.

The senior $10,000 Kentucky Futurity, in which Rosalind is entered, will be run September 29. Greyhound is entered in the rich Transylvania stake scheduled for October 1.

Agate Is Special Mascot; Many Kinds Are Reported

The agate is the special mascot of the farmer and gardener, notes a writer in the Montreal Herald. It was, however, believed to be powerful as a general mascot all over the world. In ancient Rome it was considered the most fortunate of all stones if mounted in a ring, and another Roman belief was that it would cure afflictions of the eyes.

Eastern races, notably the Persians, considered that this stone conferred eloquence and brought to its owners good fortune by inheritance or through a document.

There was a superstition also that it made its wearers lovable and beloved. In one reference book it is stated that there are numerous kinds of agate—cornelian, amethyst, quartz, jasper and even the opal are classed in this section. There are star agates, moss agates and clouded agates. The milky white agates are often artificially stained—an art of ancient origin. In a brilliant green they are most salable.

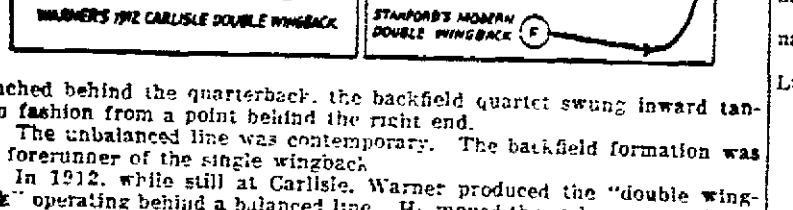

Some fine agates come from Scotland and are there called Scotch pebbles. In the shops in the Highlands they are sold as souvenirs.

WINGBACKS A PRIMER OF THE WARNER SYSTEM

(Sixth in a series of 12 articles prepared by the coach of Stanford's Rose Bowl champions in collaboration with Russ Newland, Associated Press sports writer)

The double wingback, which is an integral part of the type of football attack used by Stanford was a natural and logical development of the single wingback formation.

At the Carlisle Indian School in the early part of this century, Glenn Scobey Warner evolved the "Carlisle tandem." In this radical departure from the standardized T formation, wherein three of the backs stood hunched behind the quarterback, the backfield quartet swung inward tandem fashion from a point behind the right end.

The unbalanced line was contemporary. The backfield formation was the forerunner of the single wingback.

In 1912, while still at Carlisle, Warner produced the "double wingback" operating behind a balanced line. He moved the ends out a yard and stationed the halfbacks behind them—wings of the back line. The fullback and quarterback remained in the middle, one slightly to the left and the other to the right of center, and on a line with the halfbacks.

The present double wingback formation so widely used on the nation's gridirons is the outgrowth of that football experiment of more than 25 years ago.

From the double wingback with unbalanced line it is possible to run a play either to the short or long end with no material loss of attacking power. The advantage is the defense cannot overshift too. The double wing spreads on the defense more. The quarterback ranges from tackle to tackle.

Local Death Record

New York, Sept. 26 (AP)—Stock market prices swept forward with a rush today as bullish ammunition apparently was found in the French plan to devalue the franc and the pact for maintaining currency equilibrium, among Britain, France and the United States.

Many issues climbed fractions to points and some even more. Profit taking in the final hour reduced extreme gains in some instances, but most of the leaders closed around their tops. Transfers approximated 200,000 shares.

Large blocks of stocks changed hands at the fast opening in which the ticker tape for a while fell about 4 minutes behind actual transactions on the floor of the exchange.

The pace slowed later but picked up near the finish.

Most foreign exchange rates were nominal as both Paris and London markets were suspended. Unofficial figures were reported in Sterling from $4.31 to $4.34 against yesterday's figure of $5.02.

The French unit was quoted at 4.90 cents and small sales were said to have been made at 5.05 cents. Friday's rate was around 4.58 cents. A quotation of 87 cents was placed on the guilders, off 1/8 of a cent.

Quotations given by Parker, McElroy & Co., members, N. Y. Stock Exchange, 120 Broadway, New York City; branch office, 282 Wall street.

Quotations at 12 noon.

Kingston Shivers As Mercury Drops

With temperatures as low or lower than 32 degrees above zero during the night Kingston shivered in the coldest weather so far experienced. Housewives, many of them, started fires in the heating plants this morning as they found it too cold in the house when they arose this morning.

Not only was it the coldest night so far this season but for the first time skim ice formed in bird baths or other receptacles left standing outdoors with water in them.

Cumin Seed

Cumin seed is a commercial product imported chiefly from Malta, Sicily and India. The cumin is an annual herb of the parsley family, a native of Egypt and Syria and is mentioned several times in the Bible, as in Matthew 23, "Ye pay tribute of mint and anise and cumin." From ancient times these aromatic seeds containing a pungent oil have been used for flavoring, as a condiment, and for medicinal purposes. The Talmud mentions it as a means to staunch bleeding and to cure colic, but its curative properties are employed chiefly in veterinary practice. The seeds of other plants are known also as cumin; black cumin being the product of nigella arvensis, related to one of our common garden flowers, and sweet cumin or anise the product of pimpinella anisum.

Value of Guinea Pigs

The guinea pig or cavy is commonly kept as a pet, possessing the advantages of being clean, harmless and without offensive odor. From a commercial point of view, his value is for laboratory and experimental purposes. The original ancestors of the domestic guinea pig are thought to have lived in the highlands of Peru, where they were domesticated by the Incas. They were allowed to run freely about the homes of their owners and were probably bred for their food value.

Free Diphtheria Clinic on Monday

Dr. L. E. Sanford, health officer, announced today that another in the free series of diphtheria prevention clinics would be held at the city hall on Monday afternoon between the hours of 3 and 4 o'clock. There has been a great change in the methods of diphtheria clinics since they were first inaugurated in an attempt to wipe out the disease here. In the early days of the clinics it was necessary for a child to be brought to three successive clinics, receiving an injection of toxin antitoxin once every week for three weeks. Now only one injection is necessary. Parents who desire to have their children vaccinated against smallpox may also have it done Monday afternoon at the clinic.

Aardvark, or earth-hog, is the only ant-eater with teeth.
